

How We (Actually) Work: Measuring Developer Accessibility, Caregiving, and Adaptation

JULIE KANG

Accesscats leadership team member

GitHub

SHELBY CUNNINGHAM

Accesscats leadership team member

GitHub

A lot has happened to the Accesscats employee group in the last two months.

Upgrading Accesscats

As of July 1, 2026, Accesscats has gone from an affinity group with no budget or official recognition to a full community of belonging, with a budget and ability to get official branding!

New responsibilities

Each community of belonging is required to have a project that they complete during their affinity month. For Accesscats, that month is July, for Disability Pride Month. And the developer questionnaire works well as a project!

Approved for the public

The access needs questionnaire was approved for public distribution.

The questionnaire is live. Anyone can answer it!

Public link to questionnaire:

<https://forms.cloud.microsoft/r/5zE2AwPVxg>

What will be our next steps?

Advertise the questionnaire on social media

Accesscats became an official Community of Belonging (GitHub term for an employee resource group) in July 2026, giving us better access to company communications resources.

Collect responses

The questionnaire will be open through at least the end of July 2026 and likely longer.

What will we do with the data?

Analyze responses

Get a data expert among our GitHub colleagues to analyze responses for overall trends and aggregate responder sentiment.

Publish written results

A written, public-facing document of questionnaire results is one of Accesscats's deliverables for the July 2026-June 2027 fiscal year.

Advocate!

Use data to advocate for what disabled hubbers and disabled developers want to have available at GitHub.

Fill out the questionnaire and tell others!

<https://forms.cloud.microsoft/r/5zE2AwPVxg>

Thank you